

Sustainability increases the investment of citizens, including students, in their communities as they work towards creating their desired future.

The challenge of the sustainability movement is to help modern society reconnect with the tradition of care for ALL living things WITHIN THE MEANS OF NATURE.

Education for Sustainability (EFS) promotes an understanding of the interconnectedness of the economy, the environment and society. EFS links this knowledge with inquiry and action to help build healthier future for students and their communities.

Adapted by The Children's Environmental Literacy Foundation (CELf) with permission from Shelburne Farms.